

Berta Piñán
Academia de la Llingua Asturiana (Spain)

Languages on the Margins: Poetry in Quechua and Bable

Poets Odi Gonzales and Berta Piñán will read their poetry in Quechua and Bable (Asturiano), respectively, and will discuss the literary possibilities of writing in a marginalized language. They will follow up this activity with a conversation regarding their own relationship to both dominant and marginalized languages, which aims at drawing possible parallels between Quechua and Bable.

Wednesday, October 25th, 2023

• 5:30 - 7:00 pm •

ALANA Multipurpose Room

Sponsored by:

Central New York
Humanities Corridor

Co-sponsors: Department of Romance Languages and Literatures • Division of Arts and Humanities • Africana and Latin American Studies Program • Native American Studies Program • Core Communities • ALANA Cultural Center

Odi Gonzales
Associate Professor, New York University