

"Leveraging CLAC for institutional change"

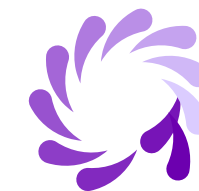

This workshop will focus on how CLAC models and other pedagogical approaches can reshape higher-ed curriculums to more actively include language learning at all levels.

Presented by Dr. Deborah Reisinger, Professor of Practice of Romance Studies, affiliate faculty in the Duke Global Health Institute, Associate Director of the Markets and Management Studies program, and Director of the Language Outreach Initiative at Duke University.

"Sponsored by the Central New York Humanities Corridor from an award by the Mellon Foundation."

13 Oak Dr. Hamilton, NY 13346
105 Lawrence Hall

Saturday, April 13
11:00 am -12:30 pm

Central New York
Humanities Corridor

In-person workshop and lunch at Colgate University

Parking is available directly outside of Lawrence Hall. Travel reimbursement is available: Please contact your institutional representative for further details.

COLGATE UNIVERSITY