

Environmental Storytelling Series of Central New York

When you want to make change, you must be organized. The story you are telling, both about the world as it is and the world as it could be, is a central part of a campaign for positive social change. George Lakey has been telling stories since before the Civil Rights Movement. He was there, alongside Dr. King. These days, his stories center on powering local green jobs for all. Come listen to his stories, see how your story connects to it, and on Friday, see how you can make a positive difference in history's great story.

Nonviolent Action from Civil Rights to Climate Justice (Thursday, April 13, 6 - 7:30 PM)

Peter Graham Scholarly Commons (PGSC), Bird Library Room 114

Climate Justice Nonviolent Direct Action Training (Friday, April 14, 9 AM - 12 PM. Register through QR Code

Community Folk Art Center (CFAC), 805 East Genesee Street

To learn more, visit:
envirostorycny.com

